For President Coolidge Schwab's Father Like Father, Unlike Son Florida—Great Empire to Be

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright 1924, Star Co.

IN SPRINGFIELD, Mo., the Union National Bank was in danger of a "serious run." A filer from St. Louis brought four hundred thousand dollars and stopped the run.

That should interest President Coolidge. The day may come when a fleet of airplanes, properly used against foreign invaders, would prevent a run on the UNITED STATES TREASURY.

"And not a little run to the tune of a few millions, like the one that threatened in Springfield, Mo., but a run that would amount up to tens of billions. Even a baby war would cost billions now.

The right fleet of fighting airships, their mere existence in this country, would prevent such a war and save the billions. And those machines could earn their pay in the Post Office service and in forest preservation during peace.

OUR FLYING men at Attu Island, Alaska, are "speeding plans for their jump to Japan."

How long do you suppose it will be before some power in Asia will be "speeding plans for an aerial jump to California?"

CHARLES M. SCHWAB'S father died yesterday, in his eighty-fifth year. His son has the satisfaction of knowing that his father witnessed his full success, and undoubtedly found in that success greater pleasure than the son could ever find.

To see your boy start as a workman, with no advantages, except intelligence and energy, and in his career build battleships for the greatest nation and gather thousands of men into his employ must truly have given to the father and mother greatest earthly happiness.

AN AUTOMOBILE smashup, with Jesse James hurt, reveals that the son of the great highwayman now works as a patrol to prevent highwaymen holding up automobiles.

Everywhere you see verified Fourier's saying: "Contrast in character between father and son."

Mirabeau, whose speech in the handball court started the French revolution and destroyed the nobility, was the son of a noble. The richest man in Rome, who foolishly got himself killed trying to win glory with Lucullus in Asia, had a son who served with real distinction and glory under Caesar in Gaul. "Like father, unlike son" would be the correct way to put it. Nature sees to it we don't breed true and thus make the human race an imitation of a bench show.

THE STOCK of the Atlantic Coast Line in Florida reaches a "new high." Big profits are made, and the stockholders exult. If Florida interests you, or railroad profits, find out what S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line, is doing with his new railroad in Florida. When he finishes the short cut from the west coast of Florida across to Palm Beach and other points, establishing direct connection between New York and southeast Florida, over his own rails, there will be an active fight for business and profits.

THERE WILL be plenty of business for both roads.

CALL FOR U. S. TROOPS THREATENED IN R. I.

'SOLITARY' THREAT TO LAMONT

Unimpressed by the Charred Books, Judge Flays Defendant, Still Held for Contempt

Not only was James S. Lamont, president of G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., denied freedom from jail on contempt charges today for the third time, but Judge Morton in United States District Court, threatened him with solitary confinement.

Lamont sought to obtain his freedom through a display of charred fragments of books, declared by him, through counsel, to be the remains of missing Redmond records he burned and buried.

Because of failure to comply with court order to produce the books, he has been in East Cambridge jail for three weeks on contempt charges.

Judge Morton flayed Lamont today in making his "solitary" threat. Lamont's word, he declared, was not to be accepted in any regard.

"IN GROSS FRAUD."

"As I said last week, Lamont agrees that the books in question," Judge Morton declared. "They were taken from the office of Redmond & Co. in a fraudulent manner and reached him the night after the closing up of the office.

"The present question is whether he has accounted for these books as they reached him. The burden of proof is on him that he can no longer produce them. On his own statement he was participating in a gross fraud.

"As I stated last week, he submitted a pretty circumstantial story of the destroying of the incriminating sheets and the stock ledgers. Now he submits a different story of how the books were burned as I find they were dug up in a different place, and shows a number of blisters.

"It is apparent that he is wholly unreliable. His statements ought not to be acted upon whatsoever in any way. There is not a scintilla of evidence that this mass of junk he produces here is stock ledgers or inside out sheets. They might have belonged to any kind of books.

THINKS BOOKS EXIST.

"In regard this application for purging him in contempt as an effort on his part to impose on the court and palm off on the court binders belonging to books which are not the stock ledgers. I believe that the stock ledgers are still in his possession.

"I have no doubt about denying this petition. I have some doubt as to whether I should increase the severity of the punishment and should order him placed in solitary confinement. I am not quite ready to do that yet. But if any attempts at fraud are made before this court I shall be inclined to so act."

THREAT TO ARREST COAKLEY

With Corcoran, He Rushes to Judge Whiting's Court to Plead to Indictments

After Judge Winfred Whiting in East Cambridge Court had threatened to issue capiases for William J. Corcoran, Daniel H. Coakley and Daniel H. Sugrue unless they appeared in court within half an hour, Coakley and Corcoran were rushed into the courtroom today where pleas of not guilty were entered on two indictments charging conspiracy.

The third defendant, Sugrue, is ill in Montreal, the court was told by his counsel.

"The district attorney has a right to have a capias for him if he wants it," directed Judge Whiting, who appeared peeved at the failure of the defendants to appear before him when motions to quash the indictments were taken up.

Judge Whiting summarily dismissed all the motions for quashing of the indictments save one, which was directed against a single count in one of the indictments. This count the judge ordered quashed on account of faulty language.

It charged the defendants with "conspiracy to cheat and defraud divers persons by fraudulent devices and practices in order to obtain a large amount of money from them."

When Corcoran and Coakley were asked what pleas they wished to enter in connection with the indictments, Coakley announced he desired to plead in abatement.

Chakley refused to change his plea. "If you remain mulct shall enter

GIRL LURED MANY IN THEFTS

Pretty North End Swindler Admits Two Years of Crime; Given Suspended Sentence

With guilelessness and sweet simplicity written in every line of her beautiful features, twenty-one-year-old Elinor Capicci of No. 40 North Bennett street, North End, stood in the dock at Municipal Court today and admitted enough thefts to keep her in prison until her raven tresses have turned gray.

For two years, the girl told Judge Thomas Dowd, she has been working in Boston as a swindler. People she encountered in subway stations, in grocery stores, or even on the street, were quickly lured by Elinor's innocent look, only recovering from the spell of the girl when they discovered that they had been duped.

The girl's favorite method of approach was to walk up to her victim and, without introduction of any kind, start putting her 'line' over.

"No, sir, I've been standing here wondering if you would like to take advantage of a good opportunity I know of" was her usual method of approach.

"I work down the street at an importing house and they have a piece of woolen goods for a man's suit. It is imported and they offered it to me at cost. I have no brother or father and I'm looking around for someone who wants this bargain."

At this juncture the girl would turn the full power of her baby-like orbs on the victim and he was lost.

"Just give me a $5 deposit and I'll get the goods." Before the victim knew it the girl was gone.

With women she used imported silks and hose as the bait. When one victim parted with $40 it was too much and he told the police. Traffic Officer C. J. Donovan investigated and uncovered a long list of victims.

When the girl was taken to the

Straw Hats Bloom as Mercury Goes Up 16 Degrees

A jump of sixteen degrees in temperature within twenty-four hours struck Boston so queerly that strange things happened today.

A large number of citizens became so affected they appeared on the streets wearing straw hats. Most of them neglected to doff their overcoats, however, fearing to put too much confidence in the weatherman.

The straw hat season officially opens tomorrow.

The mercury at noon today stood at 72. At noon yesterday it registered 57. Boston was one of the warmest cities in the country today. At 8 a. m. it was 64 degrees. At the same hour in Washington it was 62 and in Chicago it was 46, while Kansas City showed 42, Salt Lake City 58 and San Francisco 54.

Just to keep the enthusiasm from becoming too great, the weather bureau announced showers tonight and tomorrow.

ATHLETE TO WED GIRL HE SAVED IN LAKE

On the rim of Lake Michigan there was a girl's scream, a tossing, struggling form in the waves, silence and then a splash.

A man struggled to shore, carrying the limp, dripping form of the girl who had screamed.

Today is years later, but at City Hall, the rescuer, separated from the rescued until two years ago, finds intentions to marry the girl he saved from drowning in Lake Michigan.

The rescuer is Edward W. Scott, twenty-eight, athlete, college hero, soldier and aviator, a Boston Athletic Association member whose home is in Chelsea, but whose busi-

MAY ASK COOLIDGE FOR HELP

Republicans Reply to Governor Flynn's Promise to Call State Forces

Providence, May 14.—President Coolidge will be asked to send Federal troops by the Republican Senate if Governor William S. Flynn calls out State soldiers to preserve order in the greatest Rhode Island political struggle since the Dorr Rebellion of 1840-42.

Republican senators made this threat today as the Senate convened for a continuance of the struggle that developed yesterday into a shambles.

The Legislature has power, under the Constitution, to request federal troops in case of disturbance.

Yesterday the lieutenant-governor, presiding over the seething Senate, made fearful suggestion to the governor that state troops be called out to prevent recurrence of the Senate uproar yesterday.

DORR REBELLION

As Thomas Wilson Dorr's struggle resulted, ultimately in wresting political control of the State from the landholders, and giving the citizenry something like universal suffrage, so the leaders of the present struggle for the people hope by peaceful means to authorize the holding of

Leona Sheehan's twin sister, Agnes, comes to the defense of the "bobbed hair bandit" with a story about Leona's friend, "Dickie" Robertson, which Agnes hopes to get a chance to tell on Friday in the East Cambridge District Court when her sister answers to the charge of "robbery while armed."

The bobbed hair girl and young Robertson are under arrest for the alleged hold up of a Harvard Law School student early on Saturday morning.

Robertson, according to the police,

METHODISTS' MEETING IN UPROAR

Springfield, May 14.—A charge that the Methodist Church had been brought into ill repute as a supporter of communism and the Third International threw the Methodist Episcopal general conference into an uproar today.

SOMERVILLE PUPILS HUNTED AS ELOPERS

Sherman E. Douglas, fifteen-year-old high schoolboy, of No. 24 Alderney street, Somerville, quietly packed an old suitcase and slipped from his home.

About the same time, his playmate, Gertrude Edison, sixteen, also a high school student, who lives across the street, left her home, carrying a suit case containing some of her clothing. That was last Saturday. Nothing has been seen since of either.

Somerville police, to whom the disappearances were separately reported, are working on the theory that the boy and girl eloped. The parents scout this theory.

The Douglas boy is a freshman at the Somerville High school while the girl is a student at the Southern Junior High school. The Edison family moved to Somerville from Richmond, Me., several months ago, and since then the boy and the girl were recently seen together.

The lad, in addition to his clothing, also took a revolver and a gold watch belonging to his father, while the girl took $25 in cash belonging to her family.

A report that the pair were at a camp at Hamilton was investigated by the police, but no trace of the youngsters was found.

The police have been unable to find anyone in Somerville who saw the boy and girl after they left their homes.

GIRL IN COURT TO ESCAPE SUITOR

George Symes, thirty-two years of, of Dorchester, was given two months to decide that he can give up his one time sweetheart, when he appeared in municipal court today on a complaint made by the girl, Miss Louise Banks, twenty-two of No. 12 Henry street, Brookline. She said she and Symes kept company for a month some time ago, and then she tired of him and told him his room was more desired than his company. George, according to the girl, persisted in calling her on the telephone, waited for her at street corners and riding home in the same car.

a convention to revise the Constitution.

Surrounded on all sides by deputy sheriffs, and under the eyes of several hundred spectators, the lieutenants and Republicans of the State Senate yesterday faced each other for three hours and twenty minutes without getting anywhere.

There was one trying moment, of something like hysteria, when Senator Arthur Sherman, Republican, of Portsmouth, refused to take his seat when directed to do so by the presiding officer, Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin, and when Deputy Sheriff Percy Butterfield—a Republican appointee—stood motionless in his tracks when the Lieutenant-Governor directed him to give the Portsmouth Senator the air.

THIEF EXONERATES PALS; SENT TO JAIL

Whitinsville, May 14—Harry Goff, twenty-five, of Warren, R. I., was sentenced to four months in the House of Correction today when he pleaded guilty to looting the home of Joseph McCrea here yesterday. Christopher Garvin, twenty-four, and George Morrocean, twenty-six, also of Warren, were arraigned with Goff, but the latter took full responsibility. The trio was traced to Warren, where they were arrested.

RUGELEY FIRST HOME IN CHESTER CLASSIC

Chester, Eng., May 14 (By A.P.)—The Chester Cup stakes of £2,550 and extras at two and a quarter miles was won here today by F. Gretton's Rugeley, by Rosendale out of Roya. Lord Derby's Sierra Leone was second and Sir H. Lawson's Miwan third.

The Political Mixup in Rhode Island

Jan. 2, 1923—William S. Flynn sworn in as Governor and Felix A. Toupin as Lieutenant-Governor. Both men, Democrats, elected on a platform which promised calling a constitutional convention, to revise the constitution so as to provide:

Repeal of all property qualifications on voters.

Reapportionment of State's Senatorial districts.

Take from senate right of electing officers when Governor's appointments are not confirmed.

The platform also promised passage of 48-hour labor law and amendments to registration laws.

June 7, 1923—Legislature adjourns after Republican majority in Senate defeats all reform measures advocated by Democratic leaders. A long filibuster of the Democratic Senators to force favorable action from the Republicans failed and reform measures were buried in committee.

Jan. 2, 1924—Legislature convenes with Lieutenant-Governor Toupin in chair as ex-officio president of Senate. Membership of Senate composed of 21 Republicans and 15 Democrats. Democrats renew filibuster to prevent Republicans from burying reform legislation in committee.

May 9, 1924—Rump session of Senate, composed of 13 Democratic Senators, pass 48-hour bill, already passed by lower body. Also pass emergency appropriation bill providing for funds to pay State's bills for the past three months. Confirm 48 appointments, made at beginning of session by Governor Flynn, but voted down by Republican majority in Senate. Rump session brought about when Lieutenant-Governor Toupin declares Senate "at ease," whereupon Senator Arthur A. Sherman, president pro tem., calls session back to order and Republican Senators vote to adjourn session and leave hall. Remaining Democrats then reconvene and hold rump session.

May 13, 1924—Secretary of State Grenet L. Sprague refuses to read minutes of Democratic rump session of Senate, when Senate reconvenes. Lieutenant-Governor Toupin reads minutes of rump session. Senate fails to vote on ratification of minutes of rump session.

was beyond the jurisdiction of the conference.

Circulation by the Civil Liberties Union of bulletins of the federation in regard to the arrest of a group of Communists in Berrien County, Michigan, about two years ago, was the basis of a report by a standing committee, which was adopted as the conference's final action.

"The church ought to take action," said John C. Willits of the Michigan delegation. "The church has been brought into great reproach in Berrien county. We ask a deliverance whereby the people of that county will know that the church does not stand for communism and the Communists that seek the overthrow of the United States government."

"Ward's chairmanship of the Civil Liberties Union has been used as a smoke screen," the delegate continued.

G. Bromley Oxnam of California received an ovation when he said that the matter of free speech was at issue in Michigan and that the sending out of the bulletins was in defence of the federal constitution.

Presenting the committee report, as chairman recounted the Michigan episode as follows:

"A number of men were arrested at a Communist meeting in Berrien County, supposedly held in violation of the anti-syndicalist law of Michigan. The Civil Liberties Union attacked the arrests on the ground of free speech. Some secretary of the union got hold of a number of bulletins on communism issued by the Methodist Federation for Social Service, which discussed both sides of the question impartially. These, with a letter enclosed, were sent out by the union without Ward's knowledge. He would not have tolerated it had he known it was being done."

SENT OUT BEFORE TRIAL.

Delegate Willits then charged that the letters and bulletins were sent ten days before the trial of the communists to every possible juror except the ministers of Berrien County "with the purpose of making the prospective jurors believe that the church was behind the Communist movement."

"We are anxious," said the Rev. James H. Wooten of Michigan, "to have it made clear that the church was not responsible in this affair and that Ward was not its spokesman."

An amendment to strike out certain words in the committee report was then defeated and the report was carried with only a few dissenting votes.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes of the New England area today recommended to the Methodist General Conference the adoption of a comprehensive and modern curriculum for the course of study for the ministry.

The plan for courses of study does not meet the approval of the ultra-conservative element in the Conference, but it is intended to meet the present-day needs for a broader education for those ministers who are obliged to depend upon methods of self-education.

In actual service the plan contemplates the adoption of the best methods in use in the correspondence schools.

FEW COLLEGE MEN.

The commission finds that only 20 per cent. of the Methodist clergy have both college and seminary training; 18 per cent. have not completed high school; more than one-half of the pastors are graduates of high schools, and one-third no eighth grade education or less.

police station she had a bank roll containing several hundred dollars.

At the hearing before Judge Dowd it developed that her father is an honest old school janitor in the North End. The father was summoned into court and he told the judge he never knew his daughter had stolen a penny.

The old man appeared heartbroken.

"You have been preying on men and women like a vulture," said the judge, while the girl gazed at the judge impassively.

"You are nothing but a cold-blooded, mean little thief and you've got to go straight.

"Don't think you are getting this court and putting anything over with those baby glances. I'm going to give you a six-month suspended sentence and the first crooked move you make, you go to jail."

The girl promised to make restitution to such of her victims as can be located.

a plea of not guilty," the court directed. A moment later, when Coakley refused to make a plea, the court directed the entering of the not guilty plea.

When Corcoran stepped forward the same procedure was followed.

Counsel for the two men filed exceptions to the rulings of the court.

The abatement plea filed by the defendants was in connection with their motion claiming the Grand Jury which returned the indictments had for its foreman a man not a resident of Middlesex County as provided by law.

The jury foreman, Herbert E. Stone, according to the defendants' attorneys, removed to Brookline prior to being drawn for jury duty and during his services as juryman and since that time he has resided outside the county.

District Attorney Arthur R. Read, ing informed the court that Stone still claimed Framingham as his legal residence.

Lawyers for Coakley and Corcoran demanded a jury trial on the question.

Judge Whiting announced he would render a decision on the matter within a short time.

Defense attorneys also informed the court that separate trials would be demanded for their clients if the motions to set aside the indictments are all over-ruled.

BEVERLY HARRIS' EX-WIFE, IN CELL NEAR DRUNKS, CHARGES PLOT

SAYS NOTE USED TO REOPEN DIVORCE IS NOT FORGED

New York, May 14.—Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, Southern beauty, was almost hysterical in jail today following her arrest on third degree forgery charges preferred by her husband, Beverly D. Harris, former vice-president of the National City Bank. She charges a plot.

Separated by only a fifteen-foot wall from several prisoners arrested for intoxication, she sat waiting in her cell for the word from her attorney, who had rushed away after her arrest in efforts to raise $3,000 bail.

Harris caused her arrest on the forgery charges based on the recent letter she filed as a basis for the new trial in the annulment suit her husband won.

Following a consultation with District Attorney Banton, Harris, accompanied by detectives, appeared at the Hotel McAlpin, where Mrs. Harris was registered as Mrs. Elizabeth Long, under which name police allege she had reserved accommodations for her departure today for St. Louis.

Mrs. Harris was being interviewed by a newspaperwoman. When her husband and the detectives walked in she cried:

"Beverly, can you do this to me?"

Mrs. Harris was taken to police headquarters in a patrol wagon.

The letter, which was the basis of the forgery charges, Mrs. Harris alleged, was written by Harris to another woman, and she contended it exonerated her from the charges her husband had made in his annulment case. Harris, in denouncing the letter a forgery, declared he "would leave no step untaken to punish the fraud."

held the revolver, while Leona Sheehan emptied the student's pockets, taking $1.65 but returning his gold watch.

"What I want to tell the court," said Agnes Sheehan, "is that this young man Robertson once stuck a revolver in the pocket of my coat, as a policeman approached us, that he has taken money from me and broken me, and that he is entirely to blame for the position my sister finds herself in."

Agnes Sheehan is a waitress employed at the Boston Art Club on Newbury street.

DISLIKES ROBERTSON.

"I had an aversion to Dickie Robertson of Woburn," said the girl. "The first minute I saw him, a feeling that his friendship for my sister meant no good.

"On Monday night of last week I went to my sister's room in Worcester, where I had waited for her, as Robertson came in with another young man. Robertson had been drinking.

"After a lot of chaff Robertson told me Leona was waiting for me in an automobile not far away and like a fool I went out with him.

"As we were crossing the street together a policeman approached and Robertson said: 'Here, kid, take this in your pocket until the bull gets away.'

FOUND REVOLVER.

"I nearly died from fright when I stuck my hand in my pocket and felt—a revolver.

"Leona was not in the car, but he promised to take me to her. I got in.

"We hadn't been riding three minutes when Robertson says to me: 'This guy driving here has all kinds of jack. We'll get him out on a lonely road somewhere and I'll stick him up while you cop his roll.'

"He was raving and I told him as I told him if he didn't stop that kind of talk to me I would call the first policeman I saw.

"We stopped at a filling station for gas and I had to laugh when the driver with plenty of jack turns around to Robertson and says: 'Sorry, Dick, but I left my money at home; would you mind paying for the gas?'

HAD TO PAY FOR GAS.

"Dicky had to dig up $1.65 and the show nearly killed him.

"Robertson begged and pleaded with me that night to 'work' with him. 'You come with me, kid, and we'll make that bobbed-hair bandit in New York look like a piker.' He tried to give me back the revolver.

"I went home to Garrison street that night, threw myself on the bed and cried for two hours, until I fell asleep.

"The next evening, determined to find Leona and remove her from such evil influences, I went back to Worcester square and again had the bad luck to run into Robertson.

"He came into the room at 2 o'clock in the morning, without Leona. He had been drinking and he gave me such a beating that word was telephoned to the East Dedham street police station.

"When the officers arrived Robertson was gone.

"I was covered with blood and as a result of the beating this man gave me had to stay in bed three days. Not only that, but I lost a $20 bill. I wrote to Robertson's mother about the money, threatening to complain to the police, but received no answer.

TELL OF DREAM.

"Since that evening I have seen neither Robertson nor my sister, except in a horrible dream.

"I dreamed last Friday night that I saw 'Dickie' Robertson and Leona robbing a Washington street department store.

"In the dream, he was piling up suits, shoes, ties and silk shirts, while Leona was holding herself to lingerie, corsets, hosiery and gowns. 'We're doing a wonderful job, here, kid,' he was saying.

"I awoke with a scream and saw that the hour was early on Saturday morning.

"The evening newspapers revealed that it was at just that time that Robertson, with the gun, and Leona, piled with liquor, were holding up Litman.

"The action of my poor sister in giving back Litman's watch shows that she is not a bad girl.

HER FIRST FALL.

"This was her first fall from grace, and I hope the court will take that into consideration along with her youth.

"Manchester, after all, is a country town compared with Boston, and we had been out of the orphanage only a few years when we came down here. We were so young when mother died that neither of us remember her.

"The trouble with Boston is that there are too many Dickie Robertsons hanging around. People in good homes probably never give the matter a thought, but a young girl alone is little safer in Boston than she would be thrown among lions and tigers and other wild beasts in the heart of Africa.

"I want to take the witness stand and tell what I know about the swift young gunman who was able to put up $5,000 bail and see his girl tool go to jail, in default of bonds."

EPISCOPALIANS AVERT ROW ON PASTORAL

Two Resolutions Aiming at Reopening of Modernist Controversy Tabled

New York, May 14.—Two resolutions, calling in effect for re-affirmation of the declaration in the recent pastoral letter of the House of Bishops that "it was the purpose of the church, not to explain, but to proclaim a fact that the Jesus of History is none other than God and Savior," were tabled today by unanimous vote at the convention of the New York diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

This action followed a committee report asserting "was not within the province of the convention to discuss the pastoral letter. The report expressed the belief that discussion of the resolutions would revive in the church the Modernist-Fundamentalist controversy and "by resultant misunderstandings might do great harm to the church."

Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, a modernist, did not arrive at the convention hall until the resolutions had been tabled. He characterized the action as "an unfortunate delay of progress." If such questions were to be passed over without discussion, he said, the diocesan convention might be considered "a waste of time."

Bishop William T. Manning was presiding when the resolutions were tabled.

One resolution, introduced by Rev. Philip K. Fauntleroy of Lake Mahopac, N. Y., demanded that those in authority drive from the church all "false doctrines and erroneous teachings, wherever and in whatsoever quarters—high or low—these teachings may appear."

He moved to rescind the rules to allow debate on the motion and claimed the privilege of speaking on it for two minutes. Bishop Manning immediately put the motion to rescind the rules and it was defeated by a large majority.

When Rev. Mr. Fauntleroy attempted to insist upon his right to speak, Bishop Manning said:

"This gentleman is not in order. He will please take his seat."

RAIL MEN TO SEEK SEPARATE PARLEYS

Cleveland, May 14.—Engineers and firemen will resume individual negotiations with managers of nine Western railroads, seeking the approximately 5½ per cent. wage increase granted them by the New York Central Lines on January 15, as a result of the break in the wage conference in Chicago between representatives of 50,000 engineers and firemen and the railroad managers of the Western district, B. B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, announced today.

Fails in Finger and Nose Test for Drunk, Draws $200 Fine

Try this one on your nose.

Close your eyes tight. Put the tip of your right fore-finger on the tip of your nose.

If your forefinger goes in your mouth or your ear, you are intoxicated. If the end of the digit comes lightly to rest on the bulbous extremity of your proboscis you can drive an automobile or throw your mother-in-law out of the house with impunity for you are 100 per cent. sober.

Dr. Arthur J. Nugent Worcester police surgeon, testified in Worcester Superior Court that he is satisfied a person's nose and finger constitute a perfectly reliable rum detector.

Joseph Bialuki of Worcester, who poked his finger into his Adam's apple when put through the test after being arrested while driving a motorcycle, was fined $200 on the strength of the mis-directed jab.

BUFFALO COP IS SEIZED HERE AS HOLDUP MAN

Charged With Being Member of a Gang That Robbed Street Car Riders

Harry Bisbe, a Buffalo, N. Y., policeman and member of an alleged gang of trolley robbers, was arrested in South Station today by Officers Sullivan and Mullen of the Lagrange street station. He is held for the Buffalo authorities.

According to information from that city Bisbe and his gang held up an electric train, the three coaches of which was thronged with passengers, and after flourishing loaded revolvers robbed many of the frightened men and women.

Bisbe and his gang are also accused of having held up a one-man car a month ago. Two of the patrolman's alleged pals were recently arrested in Buffalo, but Bisbe fled. The Buffalo authorities notified the Boston police that Bisbe was headed for Boston.

As a result of information unearthed here Lagrange street station police learned that Bisbe had engaged a room on Shawmut avenue where his personal effects were seized today, among them part of his Buffalo uniform.

Patrolmen Sullivan and Mullen learned that Bisbe intended to call for luggage at South Station and arrested him when he appeared at the baggage window.

Bisbe is thirty years old. He claimed it was a case of mistaken identity and protested his innocence.

BRIDGEWATER FAVORED FOR STATE PRISON

Legislative Committee to Report Favorably on Removal From Charlestown

The establishment of a State prison at Bridgewater to care for the prisoners now housed in Charlestown, was endorsed today by the legislative committee on public institutions.

The committee voted to report favorably a bill providing for the construction of the prison at Bridgewater, on land owned by the State and adjoining the Bridgewater Poor Farm.

Various persons recently appeared before the committee, urging that Deer Island be selected as the site for the prison.

Others favored a site at Concord.

The bill provides that construction of the new prison be started during the present year. The completion of a prison wall would be first undertaken, after which the erection of the buildings would be taken up. It is planned to use prison labor entirely.

Those sponsoring the project announce that it would require a number of years before the prison would be completed and the last of the convicts removed from Charlestown.

BARS WAR DEBTS WITH REPARATIONS

London, May 14 (I.N.S.)—Great Britain will refuse to entertain any proposal to consider war debts in connection with reparations, Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons this afternoon.

"The government cannot even consider reparations and debts together."

Carter-Trafford Nuptials in Milton Are Set for June 7, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

WHILE the stirring strains of Lohengrin's famous bridal chorus are pealed out, an unusually brilliant processional will wind its way through the month wherein Hymen reigns supreme.

Not the least important exchanging of vows will take place on the 7th of June at St. Michael's Church in Milton, when Miss Rachel Trafford promises "to love, honor and obey" Herbert S. Carter, Jr., of New York.

The ceremonial is set for 4 o'clock, and due to the smallness of the church, the number of guests will be limited. A larger gathering will attend the reception immediately following at the Woodland road home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard W. Trafford.

Before many moons have passed there is likely to be another wedding in the Trafford family, when the older daughter, Miss Lorna Trafford, will become the bride of George Owen, former star of the Crimson eleven.

Both Miss Lorna and Rachel Trafford made their bow to society two seasons ago. Mr. Carter is a Princeton man of the class of '23.

ANOTHER nuptial event taking place out Milton way will be the wedding of Miss Elizabeth T. Russell and Charles K. Cummings, Jr., the marriage set for late in June.

Miss Russell, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Russell of Canton avenue, has spent most of the past season abroad. Her fiance, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Cummings (Lydia L. Paine) of No. 6 Joy street, received his sheepskin from Harvard a year ago.

THOUGH its setting will be on foreign shores, the marriage of Miss Helena A. Sullivan to Norman Stewart Walker, Jr., is of considerable interest here.

Miss Sullivan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Amory Sullivan of Boston, who are now at their villa at Asolo, in the Italian province of Venitia. It is there that the wedding will take place, and a number of Boston folk are making the trip across the "big pond" in order to be present.

Mrs. T. Russell Sullivan of Marlboro street and Miss Helen Lunde Sullivan of Mt. Vernon street are of the group going overseas for the affair.

Miss Sullivan, who made her debut here in 1920-21, is a member of the Junior League and the Wimsett Club. She is a pretty girl of the delicate brunette type.

TROTZKY WARNS AGAINST U. S. PEOPLE

Urges Re-establishment of the Chemical Factories for Making War Gases

Moscow, May 14 (A.P.)—War Minister Trotzky, speaking before a convention of scientists here, emphasized the importance of chemical warfare as a means of defence, and urged that the utmost attention be given to organizing Russia's chemical industry.

The victorious nations in the World War, especially the United States, he said, had made tremendous progress in this form of warfare, making the question one of the most important in its bearing on the future progress and development of civilization.

"Russia should organize because nobody knows in what dreams the American bourgeoisie is indulging," he said.

The war minister recommended the re-establishment of the chemical factories in the Don and Kuban districts, together with organization of new ones which, during peace, could manufacture materials for agricultural purposes.

"Then," he added, "we shall be able to say to America: 'We are endeavoring to counterfeit your guns and hope to succeed, but if you try to counterfeit our Red Army you will never succeed.'

"We are in a position of fullest assurance in declaring that, in case war is forced upon us, our Red Army of workmen and peasants will fight like lions in defense of the Soviet Republic."

B. & A. SPENDS MILLION ON SUBURBAN CARS

The Boston & Albany Railroad has placed an order with the Osgood-Bradley Company of Worcester for fifty new, all-steel coaches for use in suburban service, the total cost of the cars being over a million dollars. The first of these cars will be delivered in October.

These new, all-steel, suburban coaches are of a type which has never been used before in New England, and will seat 100 passengers. They are constructed from special designs and weigh 163,000 pounds.

ness connections are mainly in New York and Chicago.

The girl he rescued is Mrs. Miriam Fiske Ledworth, daughter of a countess, war worker and widow of an English cavalry officer. Her home is the Plaza Hotel, New York.

From its beginning, in the black waters of Lake Michigan, this romance has lived through the marriage of both and though four long years of war, until an accidental meeting in New York, two weeks ago, re-kindled the flame and resulted in the filing of intentions today.

Scott's home is at No. 29 Chester avenue, Chelsea, where his mother, Mrs. Louise Scott, and his sister, Miss Lillian Scott, now reside. The sister is employed in the Chelsea city treasurer's office.

GIRL OF 17 THEN.

He was nineteen years old when he dove into the waves of Lake Michigan and brought the present Mrs. Ledworth to shore and safety. She was then seventeen years old.

Not until some time after the rescue did he learn that she was the daughter of the late R. T. P. Fiske of Staten Island, N. Y., and the Comtesse Lionel Montesquiou-Fesensac, wife of a noted French cavalry officer.

They fell in love but their paths separated. Scott wandered through the far West following his college days, residing for a time at San Diego, Cal. In time he married, but the marriage was annulled.

ENGAGED TO BOSTON MAN.

The then Miss Fiske went her way and the way of long, wealthy parents. In 1915 her engagement to Stimpel Prescott Fay, prominent Boston clubman and big game hunter, was announced.

But this marriage never took place. The war came. Miss Fiske went into war work in Paris, where her mother lives. She met an English cavalry officer and they were married.

Scott ended his roamings and enlisted in the Canadian flying forces. He rose to the rank of lieutenant-commander. But the paths of rescuer and rescued never crossed during the war.

Scott, after the war, became New England representative for Joseph H. Fiske, Chicago realtor and brother of the girl he rescued. It was a queer twist of fate.

Two weeks ago Mrs. Ledworth arrived in New York from Paris. The couple met and the lost flame rekindled. Now they will be married.

SENATE PROBE ON COOLIDGE COLLECTION

Informal Conferences Held on the Charges Made by Mayor Curley

Washington, May 14.—Informal conferences were underway in the Senate today to determine whether a charge by Mayor Curley of Boston that a Coolidge campaign organization in Massachusetts, in collecting campaign funds on a "no-limit basis" will be brought to the attention of Congress with a view to an official investigation.

Should an inquiry be decided on, it is not unlikely that it will be broadened to cover the general question of campaign expenditures by all Presidential candidates.

Mayor Curley's accusation was made in a letter to Senator Walsh of Massachusetts which asserted the Calvin Coolidge finance committee was assuring contributors that large donations would be "divied so as to give full observance to the requirements of the statutes." Senator Walsh said today he still had the request that he seek an investigation under consideration.

CONVICT CALLED BY DAUGHERTY PROBERS

Remus, O., Bootlegger Summoned by Wire From Atlanta Prison

Washington, May 14.—The Senate Daugherty committee today ordered the warden of Atlanta Penitentiary, by wire, to produce George Remus, an Ohio bootlegger now a convict there, to testify before it.

Several witnesses have told the committee that Remus had immense whiskey operations in Ohio, involving a number of prominent people. He is serving a two-year sentence and it also has been testified that he has been given special comforts at the penitentiary.

Senator Harreld of Oklahoma made a second appearance today before the committee in connection with the charges that George L. Miller of the 101 Ranch in Oklahoma, had not been proceeded against by the Department of Justice to recover lands which he was charged with obtaining from Indians by fraud.

A great deal of political pressure was brought against him, Harreld said, because of his activities in seeking to get action against the Miller brothers. J. J. McGraw, former Republican National Committeeman, he said, "told me the Miller brothers could be gotten off with a fine, if I would approach the Attorney-General."

H. J. Burton, of Ohio, former prohibition enforcement agent, described an incident last Fall when Herbert Little, representing himself as a department of justice agent at Pittsburgh took Burton to a five-story building and showed him files of information about Russia, revolutionary activities and the third international.

Burton said that according to Little, this material had been gathered by the United States government and turned over to one of the large steel corporations "so they would be able to combat the organized labor schemes and the anarchistic element."

Foils Husband

MRS. ST. CLAIR AND SON

Howard I. St. Clair, Laconia, N. H., husband of Boston woman, lost bill suit for divorce in Reno, Nevada. He charged cruelty.

ST. CLAIR LOSES DIVORCE SUIT IN RENO

Reno, Nev., May 14.—Howard I. St. Clair, son of a Laconia, N. H., manufacturer, lost his suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Irene Frances May St. Clair of Boston. St. Clair has already lost suits in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

District Judge James A. Callahan declared in his decision that St. Clair "did not come to Reno or reside thereat with the bona fide intention of making Nevada his home."

Mrs. St. Clair was not "at all" guilty of cruelty toward St. Claire, "to the extent of constituting extreme cruelty," he found.

"The defendant," says the decision, "has not been guilty of wilful desertion, as alleged in the second cause of action. On or about July 12, 1922, she left the plaintiff on account of his misconduct and his acts with other women. He endeavored to get her to come back and she returned to him about July 20, 1922, upon stipulated conditions."

When she returned, the decision relates, he failed to comply with the conditions and two days later she again left him.

According to reports from Laconia St. Clair proposes to renew his case in Reno by establishing bona fide residence.

KLAN CRUELTY DESCRIBED TO U. S. SENATORS

Texas Witness Tells of Torture and Espionage Among Neighbors

Washington, May 14.—Evidence accumulated today that the Ku Klux Klan issue would have a part in the national leading political campaign in spite of the efforts of leading spirits in both parties to minimize its importance.

Senator Underwood had indicated that he intends to bring the Klan's activities in politics to the attention of the Democratic National Convention next month, and there are signs that a friendly relationship that seems to have been established between the Klan and Senator Watson since the recent Klan victory in the Republican primaries in his State may inject the issue of the secret order into the Republican national politics.

The practice of the Klan as revealed before the State Committee, investigating the election of Senator Mayfield, Democrat, of Texas, who is charged with being a former Klansman and still affiliated with the Klan politically, is further accentuating the issue.

CRUELTY DESCRIBED.

In testimony before that committee, E. J. Clarke, of Texas, a former grand titan of the masked order, gave details of the wholesale system of espionage maintained by the Klan, and declared that high officials of the Klan were entirely cognizant of the violence and cruelties carried out by members of the order.

"Vocational kleanliness," the witness said, was a duty of membership, and that while regulating moral conduct and intimidation of negroes was part of the functions practiced, a true klansman was obliged to trade with a fellow klansman.

At one time the witness refused to tell of certain cruelties until the women present had left the committee room. Then he described the nature of punishment inflicted on a negro who had been singled out. He said a Klan official had ordained it on the ground that "to put the fear of God in 'em, it is necessary to make 'em over occasionally."

SPYING ON NEIGHBORS.

The witness launched into a discussion of the "Klokan Committee," which he said was a system of espionage which provided for spies in the local communities, but before he got far Mr. McLean again objected. The committee ruled that the witness proceed.

"If we had some report of a man's immoral conduct," he said, "we would select one of his neighbors and we would ask this party to watch hi nday and night. Whenever we wanted telephone connections we got them."

One of the classes watched, the witness declared, was the Mexican settlement, which, it had been reported, was going "to rise against the people." Men went out and watched them. Mr. Clark admitted to Senator King that the purpose was protection of life and property and "to better morals primarily." He added that "the members were some of the best people in the country." Mr. Clark declared that at the time he had thought the Klan was essential for the good of the country.

MISSING YOUTH MAILED KEY TO MOTHER

Bank Messenger Had Been a Victim of Memory Lapses on Four Occasions

A hatchkey mailed to his heart-broken mother by William D. Mardin, mysteriously missing bank messenger, is the first clew the authorities have to his whereabouts.

Mardin, a shy, studious youth of 20, dropped from sight with approximately $10,000 in checks, said to be worthless to him, and $48 in cash, all belonging to the Old Colony Trust Company.

The latch-key was one used by the youth for the suite which he and his widowed mother occupied on the fifth floor of the Charlesbank apartments, No. 339 Charles street, West End.

It was the first intimation of the direction taken by Mardin, inasmuch as it was mailed at the South Station postal branch and directed the idea, held to firmly by his family, that he was headed toward Manchester, N. H., his former home, where efforts to find him had been concentrated.

The checks carried by Mardin are exceedingly valuable to the bank, but, according to officers of the institution, cannot be cashed by Mardin, as they had already been cashed at various banks and charged at the Clearing House to the Old Colony Trust Company, on which they were drawn.

Mardin has disappeared four times before, according to his mother and sisters. The Mardins lived in New York until three years ago when they moved to Manchester, where William's brother still resides.

Allege Threats

JOSEPHINE OLIVIER

FORCED TO DROP TOUPIN CASE, SAYS GIRL

Miss Olivier Declares She Was Threatened With Arrest and Imprisonment

Providence, R. I., May 14—Miss Josephine Olivier of Central Falls makes the sensational charge that the reason she withdrew her $25,000 suit against Lieutenant-Governor Felix A. Toupin is that she was threatened with arrest and imprisonment if she failed to do so.

The former Central Falls public school teacher, now employed by the J. & P. Coats Company as an expert on yarns, makes public through Patrick E. Dillon, her attorney, an affidavit in which she alleges that the breach of promise suit was called off because of pressure placed upon her by members of her family.

Dillon is the attorney, many years ago prominent in Democratic politics and once a member of the General Assembly, who acted for Miss Olivier in the alleged breach of promise matter.

Twenty-four hours after she had told the attorney to go ahead with the suit she changed her mind. Dillon, however, was unable to halt the service of the papers. A deputy sheriff picked the Senate chamber as the place to serve them.

Miss Olver, at that time, made affidavit that she had done everything in her power to withdraw the suit and, as a matter of fact, had no intention to press it.

In her latest affidavit, which has caused no such sensation as that which followed the starting and stopping of the alleged breach of promise action, the girl says the reason for instituting the suit was that Mr. Toupin had "gone back on his promise."

No Republican politician, she declares, suggested that she go to Attorney Dillon.

"Mr. Toupin," she says, "caused strong family pressure to be brought to bear on me."

"Although this decision was utterly contrary to my own wishes and judgment, I was prevailed upon to press my claim no further."

"I was hurried to the State House in the automobile of a relative. It was that relative who told me I would be arrested unless I made an affidavit exonerating Lieutenant-Governor Toupin."

This far the renewal of the Olivier-Toupin controversy, a one-sided one, has not taken the form of action. Democratic politicians, who claimed to see in the original action a plot to take the Lieutenant-Governor from the Senate Chamber long enough to break the twenty-week deadlock there, claim to be at a loss to understand what may be behind the latest affidavit.

NOTHING TO DO WITH SHIP SALE, SAYS HUGHES

His Connection With Martha Washington Was Before He Entered Cabinet

Washington, May 14—Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes today declared to be "absolutely false" the statement that he had anything to do with the sale of the steamship "Martha Washington" to its former owners by the Shipping Board.

Sec. Hughes

Representative Davis, Democrat, of Tennessee, read the correspondence as well as records of hearings by the House Merchant Marine committee, to show that Mr. Hughes in December, 1920, three months before he became Secretary of State, was active as counsel for a Trieste corporation to have the title of the ship, seized from Austria during the war, transferred back to that country.

Secretary Hughes, in his statement today, said:

"I have had nothing to do with the matter since I became Secretary of State.

"In 1920, when I was practicing law and before I had any idea of becoming Secretary of State, I was consulted by attorneys of the Italians who claimed the vessel. I believed their claim was a just one and took the matter up. While the vessel had been seized by this government because she flew the Austrian flag, she belonged to Trieste and to a corporation organized and controlled by Italians.

"The question was whether the government should confiscate a vessel which really belonged to its associates in the war. My connection with the matter completely ended before I became Secretary of State.

"When, a long time afterward, I learned that the Shipping Board had brought questions relating to the vessel before the Department of State, I declined, because of my previous connection as above stated, to have anything to do with it."

ROXBURY MAN CUTS THROAT WITH RAZOR

James J. Lynch, fifty, of No. 27 Edgehill street, Roxbury, attempted suicide today, the police allege, by cutting his throat with a razor. He is on the danger list at the City Hospital. Friends say he has been despondent because of ill health.

Son of Jesse James, Toting Dad's 'Guns,' Goes to Sanitarium

Kansas City, Mo., May 14—The same pair of wicked looking pistols that dangled menacingly from the belt of Jesse James, in the turbulent frontier days, slipped from their holsters here long enough to cause the bandit's son, also named Jesse, a lot of trouble.

A car in which James and friends were riding was struck by another automobile driven by a son of Dr. Sheldon, one of James' best friends.

It was necessary to take Sheldon to a hospital. There a bulge in James' pockets was noticed. An investigation disclosed that his companions also were armed.

James nervously explained that he had a commission to patrol the road, where several holdups have been reported. He could not explain, however, why he had his commission and was about to be charged with carrying concealed weapons when Dr. Sheldon suggested that James be sent to a sanitarium.

SECRECY IN OIL LEASES WAS ORDERED

Bureau of Mines Expert Says It Was Ordered by Admiral Robison

Washington, May 14 (U.N.S.)—Complete secrecy regarding the leasing of Teapot Dome to Harry F. Sinclair was demanded of all Federal officials who knew of the transaction, F. B. Tough, chief petroleum engineer of the Bureau of Mines, today told the Senate Oil Committee.

Tough, who said he warned ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall of the danger of drainage in Teapot Dome, declared he was particularly enjoined to secrecy by Rear-Admiral J. K. Robison, who was in charge of the Navy's fuel oil reserve land.

Paris—The new French Chamber of Deputies has more lawyers in its membership than men of other occupations. They number 161. There are 55 farmers, 46 manufacturers, 21 doctors, 4 priests and 3 ministers.

M'CORMICKS IN TAX SUIT OF $1,543,000

Chicago, May 14—Inheritance taxes approximating $1,543,000 are involved in a contest by Helen of Mrs. Nettie Fowler McCormick, widow of the inventor of the reaper. The question involved is a law requiring living trustees to pay inheritance taxes on any property over which the trustor has retained control or supervision up to the time of death. The tax office contends that Mrs. McCormick retained control of a $7,000,000 trust fund and administered until her death.

The five are Cyrus H. McCormick 2nd, Harold F. McCormick, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, Miss Virginia McCormick and Stanley McCormick.

JACKIE COOGAN TO SUE ON USE OF NAME

New York, May 14—Jackie Coogan, boy motion picture actor, is to bring suits in the local courts against the Admiranda Handkerchief Manufacturing Company and Charles D. Wyganda & Co., both of New York, asking damages for the alleged unauthorized use of his name and pictures for advertising purposes. Each suit will be for $10,000.

Jackie Coogan

The pending actions became known today when attorneys for the boy's mother, Mrs. Vivian H. Coogan, of Los Angeles, had Nat Lewis appointed by Supreme Court Justice McCook as the boy's guardian for purposes of the suits.

NO "WET" PLANK FOR DR. BUTLER

New York, May 14—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, does not advocate the insertion of a wet plank in the platform of the Republican party.

"Anyone would be mad to make such a proposal," Dr. Butler declared in reply to a statement by Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, in which Dr. Eliot took exception to Dr. Butler's views on prohibition enforcement.

Dr. Butler contended that the impossibility of enforcing the Volstead law had been proved by the experience and testimony of the enforcement authorities.

The basis for the administration's anxiety also over the matter was set forth to the House members by Secretary Hughes.

BLASTED HOPE OF GIRL SHOWN BY POEMS

Authorities to Determine if Renee Harris, Suicide Suspect, Died of Poison

New York, May 14.—Assistant Medical Examiner Gonzales, who made an autopsy, said Renee Harris' death was due to acute bronchial pneumonia and congestion of the viscera. A chemical analysis is being made to determine whether the latter condition was caused by narcotic poison.

Miss Harris, pretty and twenty-six, left Helen's Run, West Virginia, and came to New York. She wanted to see life, but she did not know the worst sort of loneliness is to be found in the midst of the metropolis millions.

She came a week ago. She died in Bellevue Hospital an hour after she was taken there. Following investigation by detectives, Mario Gimenez, in whose furnished room on East 50th street the girl collapsed, was held on suspicion of homicide.

Scribbled poems in a notebook found among Renee's effects indicate the tragedy has for its background a blasted girlhood romance. One of the verses copied or composed by the unhappy Southern girl reads:

As flowers in a garden spot,
Soft kissed by sun and dew
So, in my care forever blooms
The sweetest thoughts of you
And another
Sweet memory, boy sweetheart of old,
Sometimes when I am lonely and blue
No one will do, no one but you.
Your voice far away,
Comes back to say,
"Kiss me."

Still another of the "poems" is headed "Goodby, I Have Often Said I Was Going," and betrays a spirit of loneliness and depression. It was stained with tears and reads in part:

Farewell, my pals, I am tired, oh, so tired.
Life has been so hard with me.
It has beaten me until it is a hopeless, lonesome struggle.
So what's the use?

Long grilling of Gimiinez failed to make him from his original story of "picking up" Renee Monday night when he came out of the Strand Theatre, buying her a pair of silk stockings she admired in a Broadway shop window and then taking her to his room. About 1 o'clock she collapsed suddenly, he said, and he called Dr. Irving Newman.

DRAGGING RIVER FOR STUDENT

CLASSMATES AID IN SEARCH FOR PROCTOR

Classmates of Robert O. Proctor, missing after his rowing shell was found in the Charles River at Brighton, joined the police in dragging for his body. FUTILE SEARCH FOR MISSING OARSMAN

By BERT FORD.

The fate of Bob Proctor, eighteen-year-old Harvard freshman whose big ambition was to make the varsity crew, was as much of a mystery today as when the shell in which he went for a row on the Charles River late Monday afternoon was found floating right side up and with oars set opposite Telford street, Brighton.

The exemplary character of the missing student and the circumstances of the case have convinced the Metropolitan police and the college authorities that Proctor was suddenly seized by a heart attack or fainting spell, toppled into the river and was drowned.

He was too frail ever to hope to make the varsity crew, but he kept up his practice with grim determination. It is possible that he overtaxed his heart. Classmates say he spoke of dizzy spells of late.

Proctor's father, Dr. Charles M. Proctor, an instructor in Tufts Dental School, was among the anxious watchers on the river bank yesterday afternoon. The family lives in the Fayville section of Southboro. Dr. Proctor has an office at No. 19 Bay State road.

AMARAL CASE WAITS REPORT BY MAGRATH

Farmhand Arraigned for Cosmo Girl's Murder, but Counsel Agree to Continuance

Providence, May 14.—Anthony Amaral, Saylesville farmhand, was arraigned today in Seventh District Court, East Providence, charged with abducting and murdering Clementine Cosmo, nine, East Providence girl.

Through agreement by defence counsel, and the attorney-general, a continuance was granted to May 28 by Judge Chamberlain, pending a report on a post mortem examination by Medical Examiner George B. Magrath of Boston.

Amaral was taken to court from the Cranston jail. It had been stated by Walter Sundiun, defence attorney, that he would seek immediate trial.

Six policemen guarded Amaral in a cell at the Town Hall. Outside, scores of persons, most of them women, eager to hear the case, swarmed across the grounds. Chief of Police Everett Adams recalled officers who had returned to their homes from night duty to preserve order.

"I have my witnesses all lined up in support of Amaral's alibi," Attorney Sundiun said before the hearing. "And it will take less than an hour to convince anybody that it was physically impossible for this boy to have been connected in any way with the kidnaping of the Cosmo child, because throughout the day of that tragedy he was miles away, at Echo Farm in Lincoln.

"Our entire case begins and ends with this alibi."

'CANNON BALL' BAKER BUCKING SNOW DRIFTS

GARDNER CAR ON TUG-O-WAR HILL

"Cannon Ball" Baker recently made the trip from Bartlett to Crawfords in the White Mountains in fifty-three hours, the Gardner car fighting its way up through Crawford Notch in snow and ice, through wind, storm and snowdrifts, accomplishing the seemingly impossible. Only two days previous to the trip a snow sled had found the road impassable.

Automobile and transportation history was made by the spirit of "Cannon Ball" Baker, and the stamina of a Gardner car. The roads from Bartlett to Crawford's, New Hampshire, were impassable, according to advice from New Hampshire Highway Commission and the natives around that picturesque part of New England.

Taking a stock Gardner touring car that had already been driven 22,000 miles as a demonstrator, and without any special preparation, Baker, Hill Wade and Robson Nelson, photographer, went to New Hampshire.

They set out from Bartlett at 7:30 in the morning with snow drifts around them as high as the tops of freight cars. Few have had the experience of running into snow drifts. It's the hardest kind of banging and really battering the snow drift down with the car as a battering ram.

For fifty-three hours the Gardner stock car fought its way up through Crawford Notch, up Tug-O-War hill in snow and ice, through wind and storm over and through snow drifts until it accomplished the seemingly impossible.

U. S. PROBE OF PHONE RATES IS ASKED

Resolution in House Claims Service of Country Controlled by One Company

Washington, May 14.—Congressional investigation of telephone rates and service throughout the United States and of the organization of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and its relations with other corporations is proposed in a resolution offered by Representative O'Connor, Democrat, New York.

The resolution asks that a special House committee of seven members be named to conduct the inquiry.

Reciting that the New York Telephone Company has recently increased rates in New York City 10 per cent, the resolution declares that telephone service throughout the country is "substantially controlled by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, operating through subsidiary companies in different localities."

"The existence of such subsidiaries," the resolution continues, "tends to establish a fictitious cost of operation in certain localities, operation in certain localities contributing to the huge profits of the parent company out of all proportion to the service rendered."

BIG-NAVY MEN DEMAND 45 NEW SHIPS

Washington, May 14.—The nations of the world are engaged in a huge race to increase naval armaments. Of the three great naval powers the United States is in third place, far behind Great Britain and Japan.

This race is for supremacy in scout cruisers, known as the "cavalry of the navy." Scout cruisers can establish contact with the enemy more quickly than any other type of vessel. Many of them are equipped to launch fleets of airplanes and submarines.

Naval experts say they will constitute the chief fighting units of the world's navies in the next war.

The construction of vessels of this type was not limited by the Washington agreement of 1922, which established the 5-5-3 ratio for Great Britain, the United States and Japan. This ratio limits only ships of more than 10,000 tons.

Advocates of a big navy in both Houses of Congress say there is no reason for the United States to respect the 5-5-3 ratio in the building of scout cruisers when neither Great Britain nor Japan shows the slightest intention of respecting it. They are urging that the United States build not twenty-two cruisers, but forty-five, as to bring the number of vessels up to that of the British navy.

New Steam Engine to Challenge Motor in Heavy Load Hauls

Schenectady, N. Y., May 14.—Supremacy in hauling of railroad freight, claimed recently for an electric locomotive, powered by oil-burning motors, capable of moving heavy trains at low cost, will be challenged shortly by a steam locomotive, operating at 350 pounds pressure and incorporating features of design upon which engineers have been working four years.

The locomotive, produced through the joint efforts of American Locomotive Company, Delaware & Hudson Railroad and accessory engineers, is nearing completion in the locomotive company's shops in this city. Its cost is said to approximate $100,000.

While the average freight locomotive operates at from 175 to 220 pounds steam pressure, the new engine will operate at 350 pounds.

CONFEREES GET TAX BILL FOR LAST TOUCHES

Admit, as They Take Up the Task, It Is Impossible to Forecast Result

Washington, May 14 (I.N.S.).—The new tax reduction bill entered upon its final legislative stage today when it was taken up by House and Senate conferees to adjust differences in the legislation as it passed both Houses.

The outcome of this conference it is impossible to predict, according to the conferees.

The House conferees went into the conference opposed to the Senate plan for complete publicity of income tax returns and will adhere to their restricted plan of publicity only when demanded by a congressional committee with authority from Congress.

They will insist on restoration in the bill of a House provision accepting the plan of Secretary Mellon for stopping income tax evasion in existing law under which it was estimated about $45,000,000 additional revenue would be derived.

It is possible compromises can be effected on the income tax rates. The Senate tax plan differs somewhat in rates and income brackets from that of the House but these differences are believed capable of concessions by each side.

There are other material differences between the House and Senate, including those over the inheritance and gift taxes which will prove difficult problems for adjustment.

House leaders are desirous of getting a tax reduction bill that the President will sign, and the conferees will go to considerable length, it is stated, to get such legislation.

SAFETY AND 6½ PER CENT. BOND FOR SAVER

Fine Combination to Banish Worry From Mind of Big or Small Investor

By RICHARD SPILLANE
Universal Service Financial Editor.

New York, May 14.—This is a plain story of a plain man.

He wasn't lazy and he wasn't more than ordinarily able, but he was careless. He was particularly careless in money matters. His earnings were moderate fully up to his ordinary needs. But not infrequently he was in debt.

Those were years when he and his family were denied many of the things they craved and which they might and should have had.

He drifted until he was forty. Then he had a rude awakening. He realized he had made no material progress in life, that the time when his earning power would decrease was approaching, and that he had been a waster and a fool.

NOW HAS $40,000.

Thereupon he determined to turn over a new leaf and save. It was not easy. Habit is strong, especially if it is the habit of being careless and wasteful. He started to save. He knew it up for a time and then backslid.

But he pulled himself together and began again. Several times he backslid. Several times he renewed his saving. In the course of time the backsliding ceased.

That plain man now has $40,000 saved.

He always has lived well. He has raised a family. His expenses increased decidedly as the children grew up. So did his income, for somehow his earning capacity increased with his years. He was more valuable to his employers for, as he rid himself of his wasteful and careless habits, he became more reliable, more efficient.

DOUBLES EARNING POWER.

Thrift, intelligent, persistent thrift has that effect. It steadies a man, develops his judgment, makes a better citizen of him.

The plain man is sixty. He lives well, has all the creature comforts a modest person desires, and he has enjoyed life. His earning power today is considerably more than twice what it was when he was 40—when he didn't have a dollar beyond his salary.

That $40,000 does not represent altogether the money he saved. What it does represent is the money he saved plus the interest on his bonds and his savings bank deposits.

He is today both a worker and an employer. His money, well invested, well employed, works for him. It works day and night, week days and holidays, year in and year out. It never tires. It grows and grows and keeps on growing.

SAVINGS LARGER.

And with its growth the plain man adds to it, for his earnings are more than his needs. His savings now are larger than at any time in the twenty years he has been saving. And yet he lives better. There is no stinting, no denial of comforts or necessities.

That plain man would have been a failure but for the awakening to it when he was forty.

What if he had begun to save when he was twenty or thirty?

There are uncounted thousands who can do better than that plain man did. There are uncounted thousands who can do just as well. Those who begin early have a tremendous advantage. It is not only in the measure of time but in the making of character.

FINE COMBINATION.

The money that is earned, honestly earned and saved, means more, far more, than the money that comes by inheritance or by speculation. And, well invested, it piles up and up. It is a great form of insurance. Try it and you and yours will know this fact and benefit by it.

The plain man who didn't begin to save until he was forty put some money in Hearst Publications, Inc., bonds. He did so, for 6½ per cent and safety are a fine combination for the big or the small investor.

Through thrift and sound investing you banish worry and know independence.

Billy Sunday On Way for Repairs on His "Old Machine"

Memphis, Tenn., May 14.—William A. (Billy) Sunday, evangelist, in his own words, has been "driving the old machine hard for thirty years, and I guess some of the bearings are hot." He is on his way today to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., "to have some repair work done."

Mr. Sunday is accompanied by his wife, "Ma" Sunday, and his physician, Dr. A. L. Sanders, who ascribed the evangelist's illness to impaired functioning of the kidneys. Worry over his wife's injury, when she was struck by an automobile over a week ago, contributed to his illness.

GOODWIN SAYS FINANCE BODY DISGUSTS HIM

Calls Refusal to Increase Inspectors Pin-Pricking and Interference With Work

Failure of the Commission on Administration and Finance to give him all the twenty inspectors authorized by the Legislature, brought forth a caustic statement today from Registrar Frank A. Goodwin.

"I am thoroughly disgusted and discouraged at the way Tom White and Homer Loring have been pin-pricking and interfering with the work of the registry division," he said.

"The Commissioner of Public Works, the Registrar, the Committees on Ways and Means of the House and the Senate and the Safety Committee, which has just made its recommendations, have all said we need twenty men.

"Apparently Tom White is bigger than all those. There is no reason why I should make any further effort to get the men necessary to do our work. I am sure Mr. White will continue to do all he can to injure the registry division and me as long as he can get away with it."

The Commission on Administration and Finance approved the appointment of only ten inspectors.

William F. Williams, Commissioner of Public Works, in whose department the registry division is located, today wrote Homer Loring, chairman of the Administration Commission, asking for the other ten men, stressing the fact that the Ways and Means Committee and the Safety Committee recommended twenty inspectors.

LIBERALS JOIN LABOR, UPHOLD GOVERNMENT

London, May 14.—England's Labor government has survived another test in the House of Commons. Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden's proposal to do away with the wartime duties established by former Chancellor McKenna was upheld by the House of Commons with the rejection of Stanley Baldwin's motion of censure by a vote of 257 to 252. The Conservatives solidly supported Baldwin, and the Liberals joined with the Laborites in voting them down. The arguments centred around the effect abolition of the duties would have on the automobile industry, the Conservatives prophesying dislocation of the industry with consequent benefit for the American manufacturers.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT GREET NEW KLAVERN

Ralston Spa, N. Y., May 14.—Police, deputies and sheriffs were called out to protect some twenty-five members of a newly organized Klavern of the Ku Klux Klan when their meeting was stormed by townspeople. A free-for-all fight started after the meeting, which was quelled by police who rescued several Klansmen from the crowd.

5 MINERS, BURIED 78 HRS., READY TO WORK

Gilman, Col., May 14.—The five miners rescued from a stope in the 1600-foot level of the Black Iron Mine of the Empire Fuel Company here, where they had been imprisoned for seventy-eight hours, apparently were none the worse today for their experience and were resting preparatory to resuming work.

Iron Chests—with Two Locks!

The directors of the Massachusetts Bank voted on May 20, 1784:

"The Committee ... were desired to take such officers belonging to the Bank as they think necessary to sort and count the money they have received ... and as they finish counting daily to deposit the Money so counted in Iron Chests and lodge the keys of these Chests with the President each night."

IF you are fortunate enough to own silver 140 years old, there is no reason why you need put it away for the summer in the manner of 1784.

Everyone has certain household gods, ancient and modern, which ought to be in safe deposit.

The same bank that in 1784 adopted the novelty of iron chests (with two locks) today has more safe deposit boxes and treasure compartments than any other bank in New England—and naturally more low-rental boxes—at eight convenient offices.

LA FOLLETTE TO INSIST ON LOW R. R. RATES

Defies Administration Leaders to Adjourn Congress Without Action

Washington, May 14 (Universal Service).—Senator "Bob" La Follette, from his place of recuperation at Atlantic City, threw down the gauntlet to administration Senate leaders, defying them to talk about adjournment of Congress until railroad freight rates have been lowered by legislation.

This notification from the leader of the Progressive bloc which holds the balance of power in the Senate was conveyed indirectly through some of his followers in that body.

Because of the power which the La Follette bloc has been able to exercise over legislation the demand for rate reduction caused consternation in the ranks of the Administration forces.

The La Follette program calls for passage of the Howell-Barkley bill now in the House, which would eliminate the Railroad Labor Board, in addition to the proposal for lower freight rates.

La Follette has demanded also favorable action on the Capper bill.

Senator La Follette is expected back in his seat next week. He sent word to his friends that he has "stopped taking medicine" and is now rapidly getting in fighting trim.

He will make a drive to have the Senatorial investigations continued, especially the Daugherty investigation and the probe into the leasing of the Naval Oil Reserves. His friends say he has not reached any decision as to the part he will take in the third party movement.

FRENCH AND TURKS IN FIVE-DAY TRUCE

Constantinople, May 14 (I.N.S.)—A five-day armistice has been arranged on the Syrian frontier between the French Gendarmerie and Turks, according to a message from Adana today. Clashes between French and Turks have been reported from the Syrian frontier for more than a month. French military officials declare the Turkish bands are made up of brigands and rebellious tribesmen.

Find Yellow-Haired Chinese Women Who Keep No Tab on Age

Washington, May 14.—Blonde Chinese with curly yellow hair and women who keep no account of their ages have been found by an expedition of the National Geographic Society sent into the unmapped Kanen region of Asia.

Frederick R. Wulsin, leader of the expedition, tells of a trip on the Yellow River on a raft made of seventy-two yak skins. The "To Guns," meaning "Earth Men," were the most interesting people encountered, he said. Unmarried women wore from twenty to thirty braids of hair.

U. S. ACCUSED OF 'IMPERIALISM' IN CHINA

Peking, May 14 (AP).—L. M. Karakhan, Russian Soviet representative in the Far East, today caused publication of the view that recent notes from the French and American legations concerning China's responsibility to foreigners interested in the Chinese Eastern Railway, constitute "unusual imperialistic action on the part of France and America and possibly others behind the scene who believe the world is theirs and that they are entitled to dispose of the fortunes of other nations."

Asserting that the purpose was to hamper a Sino-Russian rapprochement, Karakhan declared the "Soviet already has taught the powers not to meddle in Russian affairs and now hopes to teach them not to interfere in matters affecting Russia and China."

Because China is weak and cannot defend her dignity, Karakhan added, she takes more stock in the threats of France and America than she does in the friendship of Russia.

The nations, he said, only invoke Washington treaties when it suits their purpose, "and even if the treaties were carried out the only purpose would be to dupe China." A Washington treaty clause deals with China's responsibility to the stock and bondholders and creditors of the China Eastern Railway.

GROCER GUESTS AT DINNER IN CITY CLUB

Haverhill Man Speaks on War Results to Manufacturers' Representatives

The disregard for human life, time and money brought on by the World War is still with us, according to J. Franklin Babb of Haverhill, who addressed the members of the New England Association of Manufacturers' Representatives at their annual dinner at the City Club.

The wholesale grocers and chain store buyers were guests at the dinner at which President Fred C. Wartz was toastmaster.

Mr. Babb, who has just returned from a visit to the Pacific coast, paid a glowing tribute to President Calvin Coolidge, whom, the speaker declared, "has captured the heart of the American people by his simple manner and directness."

PRAISES COOLIDGE.

"After completing a trip across the country and speaking to 1,500,000 persons, I have come to realize that Calvin Coolidge is gripping us closer, hour by hour, and that the people of America are beginning to realize that he is President, not because he was Governor of Massachusetts, not because he ended the Boston police strike, but because they realize that Calvin Coolidge is a four-square, honest, direct American."

F. D. Brisley, vice-president of the American Specialty Manufacturers' Association of New York, declared that business today is a solemn calling and that it owes to the public a high service.

Dr. Willard Scott of Brookline spoke in a humorous vein of the progress that has been made in the business world, particularly in the grocery trade.

NEXT PRESIDENT.

Robert J. McCormick, vice-president of the organization, was introduced by the toastmaster as the next president of the organization, while the other officers introduced to the diners were:

P. F. Barrows of Kellogg Company, second vice-president; Samuel W. Hall of the Ohio Match Sales Company, treasurer; Frank W. Tucker of Stickney & Poor Spice Co., secretary; George D. Moulton of Hansen's laboratory, William Leckie of the Royal Distributing Company, and Charles A. Koerber of the P. C. Tomson & Co., directors.

The invited guests included the following: W. W. Frazier, Jr., and Albert C. Peterson of Philadelphia, D. O. Everhard, H. F. Thornhurst, F. E. Mendes, B. O. Stahl and H. M. Foster of New York; James S. Murphy, J. B. Brown, Richard R. Nason, Frank E. Wills, C. E. Hansom, Stanley Eldridge and Harold C. Manson of Boston, Fred B. Marston of Portland, Me., F. G. Taylor of Marlboro, H. S. Hughes of Buffalo, Edwin Bixler of Chicago and Walter G. Cott of Pittsburgh.

The construction of a baptistry, for which the Stuyvesant family gave $250,000, is to come first, while work on the nave, the foundations of which were set eight years ago, will follow.

SEEK GIRL OF 3 TAKEN ON VISIT BY COUPLE

Athol Parents Puzzled by Pair Who Promised Their Little Daughter Good Time

Athol, May 14.—The three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Grant, No 732 Crescent street, may be having a "good time" in New York, but the parents are not.

They are puzzled and worried over the mysterious actions of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Earle in keeping the girl in New York, where they declared they were going to take her for a good time.

Grant is also disturbed by the return of a $75 check, marked "no funds" which he cashed for Earle while he and his wife were staying with the Grants. According to the police, Earle is wanted in Lynn for passing bad checks. This has not added to Grant's happiness, either.

A week ago the Earles asked to take the three-year-old girl to New York, but a letter has been received at the Grant home, postmarked Troy, N. Y., and stating that Earle has gone on a trip as a traveling salesman.

The Grants, unable to solve the chain of mysteries, have turned the case over to the police.

St. Albans, Vt., May 14.—The jury in the $100,000 alienation suit of Walter V. Phelps against Eugene F. Greenwood, a postwar alls banker, disagreed today and was discharged.

The suit, in which Greenwood is charged with stealing the affections of Mrs. Phelps will be retried in September, it was stated by D. W. Shute, plaintiff's attorney, following the disagreement.

John W. Redmond, counsel for Greenwood, at the same time, declared that no settlement would be made out of court.

EVERS AND HIS WHITE SOX INVADE FENWAY PARK TODAY

HOME NINE OPPOSES TROJAN

By NICK FLATLEY.

Johnny Evers, who has stirred up as much baseball commotion as any one [illegible] ever did, presented [illegible] twisted grin to the fans at [illegible] Fenway today. Johnny is steering the Chicago White Sox, and doing it very well. He has [illegible] a couple [illegible] pitchers that are a [illegible] more than promising and he may cause a [illegible]

Ty Cobb 'All Done,' But Still Going Big

POOR old Ty Cobb!

A year ago the "old man" was definitely through. He was slowing up, his fielding no longer was up to big league standards, his legs couldn't carry him around the sacks fast enough to beat a spavined mule; even his batting was falling off.

Ty Cobb

Sport writers agreed to all that—and more—and many wrote sorrowfully of Cobb's approaching diamond demise.

Yet Ty Cobb refused to believe what these same "experts" said about him. And today—

Whose name appears daily in the Detroit box score? Cobb's. Whose bat is wreaking havoc against opposing pitchers? Cobb's.

Whose twinkling legs are carrying in most of the Tigers' runs? Cobb's. Whose remarkable fielding is causing [illegible] batsmen to throw away their sticks and shake their heads? Cobb's.

Only Harry Heilmann, a teammate, excels Cobb in the American League batting averages to date. Not even Tris Speaker is fielding [illegible] no youngster who has just broken into fast company [illegible] speeding around the bases with such vim and vigor as the "old man" whom so many relegated to the discard a year ago.

Cobb said he'd show the doubters, and he has. His feat is all the more remarkable because he has on his shoulders the burden of trying to lead the "Tigers" to their first American League championship in fifteen years.

Cobb is thirty-eight years old. This is his eighteenth season in big leagues.

THE TRAGEDY OF THE DIAMOND

CORNELIUS McGILLICUDDY, Connie Mack, the one time wonder man of the baseball world, has lost his cunning, his genius and his ability to pick promising youngsters—the greatest tragedy in the history of the national pastime.

Time was when the lanky leader was the king—his team was unbeatable, his word was law—in fact the Athletics' manager was the big man in baseball.

Glance over these names, all products of the great Connie Mack: McInnis, Barry, Collins and Baker, the $100,000 infield, and Bender, Plank and Coombs, the greatest pitching combination ever gotten together.

Ten years ago Mack was on top. Then came the big series with the Braves—and the famous machine was cracked and later wrecked by the wonder worker.

Since 1914 Mack has hoped against hope, building up, only to have his structure torn down.

This year looked promising and smooth sailing loomed ahead, but the Mack machine can never be repaired. The once great leader is watching and waiting, his days in the dugout are purely punishment for the great man who was.

Holy Cross plays against Harvard [illegible] afternoon at 4 [illegible] This is the first important game on the Harvard schedule, but as the Crimson has not displayed well, the Worcester team is picked to win.

Harvard had three games booked this week, but because of the rain the game with Springfield on Monday was postponed. Coach Jack Slattery says he will use either Phil [illegible] or Jack Tuelmen in the box.

Holy Cross showed class when they defeated Princeton in a 14-inning contest last week. The zealous followers of the Holy Cross nine predict a clean record this season and declare that the Purple is the [illegible]

WORCESTER BOY LOOMS UP NEW RIVAL FOR VILLA

They call him The Kid.

His name is William Champigny.

There isn't anything extraordinary looking about this young man as he parades around the streets of Worcester. You might put him down as the healthy son of one of Worcester's leading families. He is very particular about his dress, steps along at a lively pace and is always smiling.

Wm. Champigny

You wouldn't think Champigny was such a peaceful citizen if you were to see him at his profession and also his recreation, boxing.

[illegible] your professor ask you what would happen if 110 pounds of TNT were hurled at an object? [illegible] again, tell him he will get the answer by attending a bout with Champigny as one of the principals.

For The Kid tips the scales between 110 and 105 pounds. He is as cute as [illegible] can be as he walks along the street, but once he gets into a ring [illegible] he [illegible] and the bell sounds for the opening of the first round, well, his own mother would hardly know her boy.

THE KID IS MIDGET PACKAGE OF TNT

The kid is a midget package of TNT under such conditions. He [illegible] freely, often and with tremendous power. His opponents gasp in amazement as he rushes at them, try to retreat, fold up under his heavy punches and then pass out of the picture.

He's a [illegible] of Jack Dempsey in the way one of The Kid's admirers referred to him.

Anyhow he's the best 105-pound battler to ever step out of Worcester. He says he will be the [illegible] of the country, at this weight after the national championships in this city next week.

Meanwhile The Kid is getting a lot of amusement and health out of boxing with other youngsters at the Boys Club in Worcester.

Who knows but what a real rival for Pancho Villa is in the development stage?

Time will give the answer.

DENCIO DEFEATS HERBERT AS JUDGES SLUMBER

By RINGSIDE.

Say it with brown derbies, brothers.

Young Dencio, Filipino flyweight, handed Frankie Hebert of Lowell an artistic pasting in their ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House.

Dencio won NINE rounds, Hebert ONE.

It was the Filipino's fight all the way.

All of which doesn't mean a great deal in the eyes of some of the [illegible] who are paid $[illegible] a night [illegible] great and glorious State of Massachusetts.

You ask:

"Didn't Dencio get the decision?"

Abe Friedman, New England bantamweight champion [illegible] title when he easily defeated [illegible] Nee of South Boston in a [illegible] affair. Friedman won [illegible] margin than he did in [illegible] previous meetings with the South Boston youth. It was [illegible] story of a fast, skillful boxer [illegible] ing a puncher look rather [illegible] times.

Louis Sagarro, a South A[illegible] who came to this country [illegible] at Tech but who has become [illegible] won over George Siegal of Revere in eight rounds.

As for Jack Conway's selections, Friedman won as predicted. So did Dencio. No apologies to the honorable officials.

Three games are on the schedule of the Greater Boston Twilight League this evening at Medford, Lynn and Everett. The South Boston team will meet the Medford nine, the Millstreams are down to [illegible] the Cornet All Stars [illegible] at the Little River Grounds, while Reading Town Team will journey to Everett for an engagement with Jack Leary's club.

Jack Leary

The Reading team has made some noticeable changes during the past week. George Twombley, former major league player [illegible] Frank [illegible] services [illegible] Boston College [illegible] gap in the [illegible]

MANY people never succeed in getting ahead of their salary check or pay envelope, because they do not realize the potential growth of money systematically invested in safe bonds, and the surprisingly rapid accumulation which accrues from reinvestment of the bond interest.

The table above shows how even moderate amounts, thus invested over a period of years, will accumulate substantial sums—eventually yielding a worth-while, steady income, year after year, independent of work or worry.

Start With This Safe 6½% Bond

The important thing is to get started with a plan of systematic investing suited to your income. Create an obligation to save, by undertaking to buy a bond of the amount which you can pay for at the rate of [illegible] down and the balance in nine equal monthly payments. Once you do this you will be stimulated to greater effort.

Systematic investing makes saving easier and, moreover, makes it interesting. Many people are following this plan successfully who were never able to save before.

Hearst Publications, Inc., 6½% Serial Gold Bonds offer you an opportunity to begin systematic investing. At this attractive rate of income money doubles at compound interest in less than eleven years.

36 tablespoonsful to the pint

That is the way to think of Heinz Vinegar. A pint will make the dressing for 36 salads!

What matters the slightly higher price per bottle when this difference in price per salad is a fraction of a cent!

Is that too much to pay for the delicious tang and flavor that Heinz Vinegar imparts to the good things upon which it is used?

Next time try Heinz Vinegar. The difference between it and ordinary vinegar may mean the difference between a successful salad and a spoiled one.

2-TUBE PANEL HAS PLACE FOR EXTRA RHEO

By M. A. SIMMONS

Otherwise the Panel Layout Is Like the One-Tube Model

The panel layout for the two-tube American Superflex is similar to that for the one-tube, with the addition of the mounting holes for the second rheostat.

Because different makes of parts differ so, it is impossible to indicate the exact mounting holes for them. For this reason, the shaft hole is indicated in each case, and the template given with the various parts may be used to find the exact mounting holes.

This is the same system that was followed in describing the panel layout for the single tube Superflex last week.

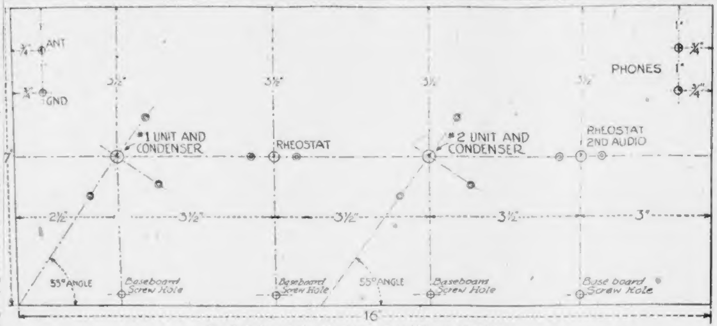
Do not use dials of over three inches in diameter.

If vernier dials are not used, it is advisable to mount a vernier control on the left dial, as this is the critical adjustment.

The layout given is that for the baseboard type, which is the easier to build of the two models. The holes along the bottom edge are for mounting the panel on the baseboard.

Tomorrow we will publish the layout of parts and the wiring for the baseboard model in the simplex phantom style that makes the placement and wiring easy for even the youngest novice.

WHERE TO DRILL PANEL FOR 2-TUBE REFLEX



HALF-SCALE FRONT PANEL LAYOUT

The layout above is printed one-half actual size. The dimensions, however, are given exactly as they should be for the completed panel, which is 7 x 16 inches in size. The actual mounting holes must be determined by the parts you have bought, so that they are indicated by the shaft holes and exact mounting holes are given in various templates published. These may be laid out by the templates that come with the parts, or by actual measurement of the particular parts bought. Do not use dials of over three-inch diameter unless you change the location of binding post holes. The layout is given for the baseboard type, but it also indicates the layout for the other model, except the panel mount sockets.

Radio Queries

I have a set with two stages of amplification. I get fair distance with it, but have a lot of trouble with sounds like water rushing through a pipe, and also crackling, especially on distance. I am using a six-volt storage battery, with 90 volts on the amplifier and 22½ on the detector. 1.—Is there any way of eliminating these noises? 2.—Am I using correct voltage? 3.—I find it is almost impossible to calibrate the set so that I can get the same station every time from the same dial setting. F. W. A.

1—You probably are burning the tubes too brightly, especially the detector tube. A fine adjustment on this tube is frequently necessary. 2—We have found that less than 22½ volts is frequently better for the detector tube. 3—Regenerative sets, especially of the single circuit type, generally cannot be calibrated because of the interaction of the regenerative feature. The condition of the batteries often affects the tuning.

1.—How many turns on the primary and secondary of coils No. 1 and No. 2 in Superflex? 2.—Is 22½ volts B battery enough? 3.—Could a crystal and detector be used in place of fixed crystal? R. P.

1—The coils were described completely in May 7's paper. The number of turns varies according to the type of coil used. 2—No. Better use 67½ or 90. 3—A crystal and cat-whisker can be used in place of the fixed crystal.

As the forms of honeycomb coils vary in size, I wish to know about how many turns to unwind on two-inch forms of 100 turns each for the Superflex. R. H.

About forty.

ON THE AIR LAST NIGHT

By THE LISTENER

The Boston American Orchestra again made its appearance at WNAC. This team of musicians have won for themselves a warm place in the heart of every radio bug. Their skillful playing together with such accurate balancing of the instruments in front of the microphone makes their programs second to none.

While Grace Deschamps, Boston American reporter, was giving her talk at Shepard's, I heard a bell tolling. The bell sounded so sweet and alluring that I twisted the dials in an effort to locate the station.

To my surprise it was right on WNAC's wave! Upon investigation I found that it was just exactly nine o'clock, and the bell in question was on the Park Street Church. They must have left the studio windows open.

Could not believe my ears. Got some real code interference on WNAC's wave! I have never before had any trouble of this kind, excepting by an occasional amateur station, and even then seldom during broadcast hours.

At 9:12 I landed on two ships, one apparently a Dutchman, and the other which sounded like an Italian. They were using the 300 meter wave which I believe is still allowed under the existing international communication laws for what sounded to me like malicious "rag chewing."

They kept it up all evening, and their sending was so rotten I had great difficulty in getting any of it. They were using both Dutch and Italian, and each operator apparently understood the other's lingo.

They did not use their calls but once, and then they were made so poorly that I only got the first letter of each. One began with "P" and the other with "I." P would indicate a Dutch vessel, while I would be Italian. I am going to watch for these birds from now on, and see if we cannot "get their number."

WGY produced another good drama tonight, called "Billeted." It came through fine, and while I didn't stay through with it, I could not help but marvel at its clarity and volume. You know these dramas are things you have to follow pretty close to thoroughly enjoy them.

To Give Reading

JESSIE ROYCE LANDIS

Actress now playing with Joseph Schildkraut in "The Highwayman" at the Shubert-Majestic Theatre, is to give a group of dramatic readings from WNAC, The Shepard Stores tonight at 11:05 p. m.

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

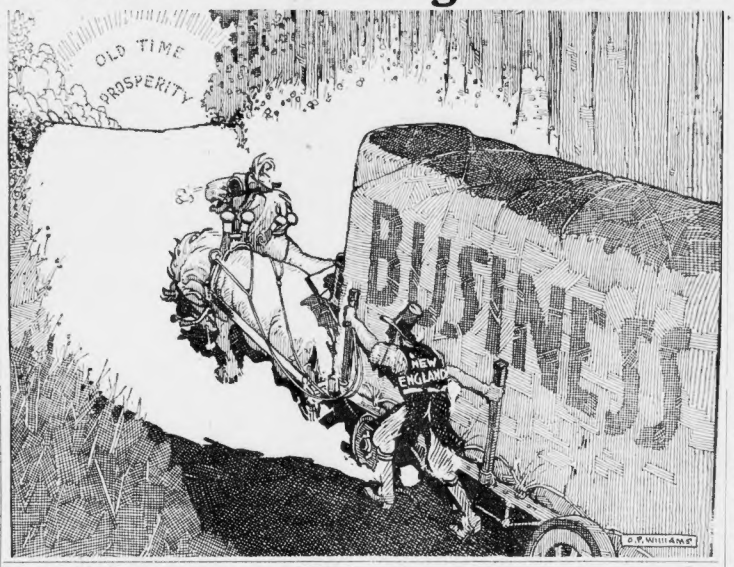
"Massachusetts and New England are inseparable in any consideration of commercial and industrial progress," declares Governor Cox in a signed article written for this page.

"New force, new energy, new leadership and endeavor must be constantly added to keep the complex machinery of manufacturing and industry at the highest point of efficiency."

Governor Cox Issues Call to New England Leadership to Maintain New England's Progress

THE COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT
STATE HOUSE, BOSTON

CHANNING H. COX
GOVERNOR



MASSACHUSETTS and New England are inseparable in any consideration of commercial and industrial progress. This State comprises but a very small percentage of the nation's area, yet in the science of manufacturing it has had the oldest experience of all. That experience, widening with the passing of years, has made possible great leaders of industrial enterprises and thousands upon thousands of skilled workers.

The advantages of Massachusetts and New-land from the point of view of finance, education, transportation, seaport facilities of great promise, density of population, its numerous excellent sites for manufacturing establishments, its water power and the wealth of its people are unexcelled.

The beauty of the scenery of New England and its temperate climate are added features which have helped to make Massachusetts and New England desirable places in which to live.

One must recognize, of course, that industrial supremacy does not rest on the achievements of the past, but that new force, new energy, new leadership and endeavor must be constantly added to keep the complex machinery of manufacturing and commercial industry at the highest point of efficiency.

Much of the pioneer work of the establishment of large industrial centres has been accomplished in Massachusetts and the problem of the future is to maintain and increase those establishments for the present and the future—recognizing, of course, that other sections of the country where the raw material is right at hand have an advantage over our New England industries in this respect. Intelligent leadership that is at once conservative and yet at the same time possessing a sufficient vision of the requirements of the future is needed and will be provided if the accomplishments of the past and present are to be taken as an earnest of future action.

The balance sheet for the manufacturing industries of Massachusetts in 1923, when finally completed, will probably show some improvement over that for the year 1922. The total value of the products manufactured in 1922, as ascertained by the State Census of Manufactures, amounted to over three billion dollars ($3,013,978,682). The census of manufactures for the year 1923 has not yet been completed, but reports from a large number of representative establishments indicate that the production for that year notwithstanding curtailment reported during the past six months, will exceed that for 1922 by at least five per cent. This conclusion is based on payroll data obtained monthly by the Department of Labor and Industries.

MANUFACTURING ESTABLISHMENTS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Items	1922	1921	1920
Number of establishments	10,055	9,984	10,262

Cost of stock and materials used	$1,524,211,864	$1,441,035,230	$2,489,237,446
Total wages paid to employes	$677,852,328	$661,360,936	$891,285,731
Average number of wage-earners	312,558	279,070	295,332
Average yearly earnings of wage-earners	$1,130.59	$1,197.67	$1,281.04

A review of the progress of the industries during the past three years furnishes a better standard of measurement of present conditions. Since the Spring of 1921, which marked the close of a period of unusual business depression which had continued for somewhat over a year, there has been, with brief interruptions, a steady return to what may be considered normal production in the manufacturing industries. The recovery from the depression, although difficult to trace over short intervals of time, was, nevertheless, sure during the last nine months of the year 1921, and at the close of that year business had become established on a firm basis.

No marked improvement was noted during the early part of the year 1922, but during the latter part of that year, and, continuing through the Spring of 1923 the upward progress was highly gratifying, and the peak, reached in April, represented an improvement in production of more than 20 per cent. over the low point recorded in the Spring of 1921, when the depression was at its lowest level. During the last nine months of the year 1923, however, there has been, from month to month, with the single exception of the month of October, a curtailment of production in nearly all of the principal manufacturing industries in this State.

Measured by value of products, the nine principal manufacturing industries in Massachusetts, arranged in the order of their relative importance in 1922, were as shown in the following table. Corresponding data for 1921 are also presented for purposes of comparison.

PRINCIPAL INDUSTRIES

Rank in 1922	Industries	Value of Product 1922	1921
1	Cotton goods	$ 366,030,361	$ 317,601,894
2	Boots and shoes, including cut stock and findings	346,355,653	348,939,529
3	Woolen and worsted goods, including felt goods	273,457,968	268,444,428
4	Foundry and machine shop products	174,997,616	210,648,175
5	Rubber goods, including rubber boots and shoes	116,341,506	99,414,610
6	Dyeing and finishing textiles	97,409,290	92,953,428
7	Electrical machinery, apparatus, and supplies	93,083,923	72,047,864
8	Printing and publishing	85,082,886	100,850,504
9	Paper and wood pulp	84,440,050	62,865,216
	Totals, nine principal industries	$1,637,429,201	$1,579,765,648
	All other industries	1,376,549,381	1,269,647,588
	TOTALS, ALL INDUSTRIES	$3,013,978,682	$2,849,413,516

It is not possible at this time to furnish complete returns of the census for the year 1923, but for the principal industries specified in the foregoing table information has been obtained monthly by the Department of Labor and Industries from a large number of representative establishments during the year 1923.

Cotton Manufacturing—The manufacture of cotton goods is the principal manufacturing industry in this State. The value of the product in 1922 was $366,030,361, and the average number of wage-earners employed was 111,165. Final reports for 1923 will probably show a decrease of from five to ten per cent. in the value of the product manufactured, when compared with the value for 1922, because of considerable curtailment in production during the last six months of the year. The extent to which there was a reduction in activity in the cotton mills in Massachusetts and in North Carolina and South Carolina (the two principal competitor States in the South) is shown in the following table:

COTTON SPINDLES IN MASSACHUSETTS, NORTH CAROLINA AND SOUTH CAROLINA IN 1923: BY MONTHS

(Source: Monthly Reports of the U. S. Bureau of the Census)

Months in 1923	Active Spindle Hours per Spindle in Place
	Mass.	N. C.	S. C.
January	182	325	316
February	172	290	284
March	197	324	317
April	198	306	296
May	188	326	316
June	165	289	288
July	178	267	268
August	137	278	281
September	135	274	278
October	161	299	295
November	160	281	287
December	137	240	266
Average for the Year	163	292	291

One will observe that the trend of the activity of cotton spindles was quite similar for each of the three States in 1923, showing that conditions causing curtailment of production in Massachusetts likewise affected production in North Carolina and South Carolina in a similar degree. For example, a comparison of the number of spindle hours in December with the number in January shows a reduction in Massachusetts of 55 hours per spindle, or 28.6 per cent.; in North Carolina, a reduction of 85 hours, or 26.1 per cent., and in South Carolina, a reduction of 44 hours, or 14.2 per cent.

Notwithstanding the curtailment in production during the latter half of the year 1923, there was, nevertheless, a small increase in the number of Massachusetts spindles in place of about 45,000, or about 0.4 per cent. more than in 1922. The increase for the United States was 1.3 per cent.; for North Carolina, 4.0 per cent., and for South Carolina, 0.8 per cent.

Boots and Shoes—The total value of boots and shoes, including cut stock and findings, manufactured in Massachusetts during the year 1922 was $348,939,529, and the average number of wage-earners employed in this industry was 77,700. There was considerable activity in this industry during the first four months of 1923, but this was more than offset by curtailment during the Summer months and during the last three months of the year. In August and September there was some resumption of activity but the period of increased production was of short duration. The census for the year, when completed, will probably show that production in this industry in Massachusetts in 1923 fell below that in 1922 by at least 10 per cent.

Woolen and Worsted Goods—Among the manufacturing industries in Massachusetts the manufacture of woolen and worsted goods (including felt goods) ranked third in 1922. The total value of product amounted to $273,457,986, and the average number of employes during the year was 56,772. The relatively large production during the latter part of 1922 was maintained during the first half of 1923, but a curtailment varying from five to eight per cent. was reported during the last six months of the year. Considering the year as a whole the production in this industry, when finally measured, will probably be found to be somewhat below that in 1922. Lack of demand for the product appears to have been the principal cause of the decrease in production during the last six months of the year. There were no important labor controversies causing an interruption of activity in this branch of the textile industry.

Foundry and Machine Shop Products—This industry, which in 1922 ranked fourth among the manufacturing industries, with a total value of products amounting to $174,997,616, furnished employment for 40,730 wage-earners (average for the year). In 1923 the number of wage earners at no time fell below the average number employed in 1922 and during each of the six months, May to October, furnished employment to at least 10 per cent. more wage-earners than were employed at the beginning of the year. Some decrease in the number employed was reported in November and December, but the pay-roll records for the year as a whole showed that activity in this industry exceeded that in 1922.

The demand for foundry and machine shop products is determined largely by activity in other important manufacturing industries, transportation, and the building trades, and the increased activity in these industries during the latter part of 1922 and the early months of 1923 was later reflected in the demand for metal products in 1923.

Rubber Goods—In 1922 the value of rubber goods, including rubber boots and shoes, produced amounted to $116,341,506, and the average number of wage-earners employed in this industry was 20,569. During the first six months in 1923, the relatively high level of production established in 1922 was maintained, but during August and September there was a marked decrease and although there was some increase in production during the last three months of the year, the output for the year as a whole fell somewhat below that in 1922.

Dyeing and Finishing Textiles—With the exception of an improvement in July, the trend of the graph representing employment in this industry followed closely the trend of the graph representing employment in the manufacture of cotton goods, upon which industry it is primarily dependent. For the year 1923 production in this industry was about 10 per cent. below that in 1922.

Electrical Machinery—Among the industries in Massachusetts, this industry ranked seventh in 1922, with a total value of product amounting to $93,083,923 and 19,064 wage-earners (average for the year). During the greater part of 1923 production was well above that in 1922. Toward the close of the year there was some reduction in activity, but, according to payroll data furnished by reporting establishments, the number of wage-earners at no time during the year fell below the average number reported in 1922. The demand for radio apparatus contributed in no small measure toward the prosperity of this industry during the past year.

Printing and Publishing—Reports for this industry in 1923 showed on the whole no large fluctuations in any month. There was a small decrease in output during the Summer months, but at the close of the year there was evidence of practically normal activity.

Paper and Wood Pulp—Production in this industry may be characterized as "irregular" during 1923. According to monthly pay-roll data the number of wage-earners employed was for the greater part of the year well above normal. In May, August, September and November decreases were reported, the net effect of which was a reduction after March, but the year closed with some improvement recorded.

CONCLUSION

There is at this time much difference of opinion as to the probable trend of industry in the immediate future. For the most part the forecasts of experienced observers are to the effect that the curtailment during the recent months is only a temporary reaction from the boom which had gained rapid headway during the latter part of 1922 and the early months of 1923, and that within a month or two resumption of activity (already observed in several important industries) will take place. Some observers have suspended judgment, believing either that the basic factors show no tendencies which may be considered as at all conclusive, or hold that the demand for products will depend to a considerable extent upon political and economic considerations affecting foreign markets. Still others, bearing in mind disheartening experiences during the recent depression, view the outlook through darkened glasses and are, therefore, somewhat over-cautious. There are, however, four important considerations which appear to justify the belief that there will be some improvement in Massachusetts industries (perhaps not very marked but nevertheless real) during the current year. They are these:

(1) In nearly all of the industries it has been the practice of employers of late to refrain from manufacturing for stock, and, as a result, there is not in reserve any large accumulation of surplus stocks of manufactured goods. Merchants have been purchasing for immediate sale and their stocks in hand are relatively low. Any large increase in either domestic or foreign demand for goods will immediately stimulate manufacturing activity.

(2) The building trades have been unusually active during the past year, the demand for building materials and the distribution of a large wage fund to building tradesmen have contributed toward the demand for manufactured products, and there is every indication that the building program for 1924 will equal, if not exceed, that for 1923.

(3) In the boot and shoe industry, one of the principal manufacturing industries in this State, the recent curtailment in production was in part due to industrial disputes of long standing, which have finally been settled by the adoption of agreements between employers and employes which promise to continue in operation for some time.

(4) A reduction in the tax levy, both State and National, if effected, and the prospects in this respect are more than hopeful, will relieve Massachusetts industries of a part of the burden which they have borne and make possible lower costs of production and lower selling prices, thereby increasing demand, and improving the position of Massachusetts manufacturers as competitors in the foreign markets.

Massachusetts is not losing her energy, her ability to produce, or the prestige she has enjoyed these many years. She may not be flamboyant in her claims, she may perhaps be over-modest in telling the rest of the world of her achievements, but the future holds for Massachusetts achievements as great and greater than Massachusetts has accomplished in the past. She is a strong, virile State, and looks straight into the future with unbounded confidence born of a knowledge of accomplishments made and the ability to achieve substantial and worthy undertakings.
